Your efforts have set the framework to help guide the future growth, revitalization, livability and character of the North Loop Neighborhood.

We would like to also thank Barb Lickness from the Minneapolis NRP staff for her help and support throughout the NRP Phase I process. We also appreciate the continued efforts of the following offices at the City of Minneapolis: Community Planning and Economic Development (CPED), Minneapolis Parks and Recreation Board and Public Works.

NEIGHBORHOOD VISION

The vision for the Warehouse District North Loop Neighborhood is to foster a strong community that is rich in the diversity of ideas, talents, people and property. Toward that end, the neighborhood shall promote a climate of safety, livability, and improvement through public neighborhood meetings, communication, creation of programs that encourage community participation and advocacy with the relevant municipal and county organizations.

ABOUT THE NORTH LOOP NEIGHBORHOOD

The Warehouse District North Loop Neighborhood is located along the Mississippi River, adjacent to the heart of Downtown (see page 22). The geographic boundaries of the Neighborhood are the Mississippi River on the east from Plymouth Avenue to Hennepin Avenue, Interstate 94 on the west from Plymouth Avenue to 1st Avenue North, Plymouth Avenue on the north from Interstate 94 to the Mississippi River, and 3rd Avenue North on the south from Washington Avenue to 1st Avenue North.

The North Loop Neighborhood is the gateway to the Minneapolis river front and the link to neighborhoods in Northeast Minneapolis. The North Loop is a mix of eclectic shops, vibrant restaurants, new and renovated multi-family housing, historic warehouse buildings, public service uses and riverfront recreational opportunities. The Neighborhood can be defined by the five very unique character districts. The districts are:

- a) Waterside Residential District – most of the neighborhood residential developments occur in this district.
- b) Mixed-Use Loft District – this district contains a wide variety of uses including residential, arts, businesses and light manufacturing.
- c) Washington Avenue Corridor – this area is the commercial core and heart of the North Loop.
- d) Charitable Organizations/ Farmers Market District – the location of the Minneapolis Farmers Market and home to significant charitable organizations.
- e) City Services/ Utilities/ Industrial District – this district contains many of the City of Minneapolis support facilities and most of the industrial/ manufacturing uses.

NRP PROCESS

The Phase I NRP planning process has spanned a one-year period beginning in October 2002, at which time the WDNLA approved the first NRP Steering Committee. The NRP Phase I Participation Agreement was approved in September of 2002.

The NRP Steering Committee, appointed by the WDNLA Board, was formed to facilitate the public input process and to develop the goals and objectives for the Phase I Plan. In August of 2003, the WDNLA Board voted to accept the Phase I NRP Plan. In September of 2003, WDNLA residents voted, during a public open house, to approve the Phase I NRP Plan.

Page 1 of Mail Survey Results located at the back of this plan describes the demographic and neighborhood characteristics unique to the North Loop Neighborhood.

COMPREHENSIVE MASTER PLAN

The Comprehensive Master Plan will be mentioned several times throughout the plan. Currently, the City of Minneapolis has several documents that were produced by the City Planning Department, The Met Council or other sources that cover certain geographic areas of the North Loop Neighborhood. - * Produce a plan for the area of the North Loop Neighborhood that does not currently exist in other plans.
- * Working in coordination with City of Minneapolis CPED staff person, WDNLA will review other planning documents for the neighborhood and combine those elements into one comprehensive plan.

INTRODUCTION

In March 2003, the Warehouse District North Loop Neighborhood Association (WDNLA) mailed a survey to more than 2,000 neighborhood residents, workers and business and/or property owners. The survey was designed to gather basic demographic information about survey respondents, as well as solicit opinions on likes/dislikes of the neighborhood, concerns for the future, areas needing attention by the WDNLA, long-term neighborhood vision and more. Market Research Partners provided input on the questionnaire and tallied the results, with assistance from Barb Lickness at the Neighborhood Revitalization Program (NRP). The mail survey results will be combined with other information about the neighborhood to support the drafting of a Phase I NRP Plan.

Approximately 160 people responded to the survey, resulting in a response rate of roughly 7%. A copy of the survey form is included in the Appendix of this report.

DEMOGRAPHIC AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS OF SURVEY RESPONDENTS

This section presents a summary of the demographic and housing characteristics of survey respondents. The first six questions of the survey dealt with these issues.

Residency, Local Employment Status and Property/Business Ownership Status

North Loop Residents:
Resident Only	78	50%
Resident and Property Owner*	38	25%
Resident and Business Owner	9	6%
Resident and Employee of N.L. Business	4	3%
	129	83%
Non-Residents:
Property Owner Only	10	6%
Business Owner Only	9	6%
Employee Only (non-resident)	4	3%
Other Combinations	3	2%
	26	17%
 Total Responses	 155	 100%
 * This tally likely includes mostly homeowners in the North Loop. Some of these respondents may also own North Loop buildings other than their home, but the survey did not ask respondents to make this distinction.

83% of survey respondents were residents, regardless of whether they owned a business or property.
17% of respondents were non-residents.¹

Household Income of Survey Respondents (Residents Only)

Under $15,000	1	1%
$15,000-$30,000	6	5%
$30,000-$50,000	12	9%
$50,000-$75,000	25	19%
$75,000-$100,000	26	20%	} 83	64%
$100,000-$150,000	27	21%
$150,000+	30	23%
Not reported	2	2%
Total	129	100%

The North Loop Neighborhood is a relatively high-income area, according to income figures reported by survey respondents. Approximately 83% of respondents reported incomes of $50,000 or more.

Nearly two-thirds of respondents reported household incomes of $75,000 or more, well above the household averages for Minneapolis (2000 average income of $52,103 and the Twin Cities (2000 average income of $67,670).

Household Type (Residents Only)

Singles	49	38%	} 105	81%
Married Couples	56	43%
Unmarried Couples	19	15%
Unmarried, Roommates	5	4%
Not reported	0	0%
Total	129	100%

Singles made up 38% of respondents, suggesting that the North Loop is similar to Minneapolis (40%) in its singles makeup.

Married couples made up 43% of respondents, far higher than the proportion of married couples in Minneapolis (29%). The North Loop might be attracting more married couples (younger, empty nesters and retirees) because of its unique multifamily owner housing. Roommates and unmarried couples made up 19% of survey respondents. The combined percentage of these two groups in Minneapolis is slightly lower at 14%.

Households by Presence of Children (Residents Only)

¹ The WDNLA may want to consider a business-only survey in the future to more closely gauge business concerns and interests.

Without Children	114	88%
With Children, Age 1 or Under*	5	4%
With Children Age 2-8*	2	2%
With Children Age 8-12	0	0%
With Teenagers (<18)*	2	2%
Not reported	6	5%
Total	129	100%

 All of these households had one child.*

Nearly 90% of survey respondents did not have children, suggesting a small population of children in the North Loop currently.

Most of the children of the survey respondents are very young (5 of 9 are no older than 1 year). Just two children of survey respondents are between 2 and 12; only 1 child was of school age (over 5). The other two children of survey respondents are teenagers.

This survey data suggests that families with children (especially of school age) are quite uncommon in the North Loop.

Housing Style (Residents Only)

Owner Townhome	46	36%
Condominium	54	42%
Rental Apartment	21	16%
Rental Townhome/Condo	4	3%
Single-Family Home	0	0%
Subsidized Rental Unit	1	1%
Not reported	3
Total	129	100%

More than 75% of survey respondents live in townhomes or condominiums that they own. No respondent owns a single-family home (as there are likely none in the North Loop).

20% of respondents rent their housing, mostly in market-rate apartments.

Owned Housing Value (Residents Only)

Under $200,000	3	3%
$201,001-$300,000	44	43%
$300,001-$400,000	8	8%
$400,001-$500,000	16	16%
$500,000+	18	17%
Not reported	14	14%
Total	103	100%
Range: $130,000-$1,200,000
Average: $388,350

Survey respondents who own their homes fall into two main value classes: between $200,000 and $300,000 (43%) and above $400,000 (33%).

The average home value for resident respondents was $388,350, nearly double the Twin Cities Metropolitan average sales price of roughly $200,000 for 2002.

Rental Housing Cost (Residents Only)

Under $500	0	0%
$700s	4	15%
$875-$985	1	4%
$1,000-$1,200	6	23%	} 18 69%
$1,300-$1,500	6	23%
$1,500-$1,700	6	23%
$1,900+	3	12%
Total	26	100%
Range: $437-$2,750
Average: $1,288

Of the survey respondents who rent their housing, most (69%) pay between $1,000 and $1,700 per month in rent. This is the typical price range for newer rental housing (built in the mid 1990s and after) across the Metro Area.

The average price range for rental units among survey respondents is $1,288, which is typical for newer, more-upscale rental housing in the Twin Cities.

SURVEY RESPONSES TO LIKES, DISLIKES, CONCERNS AND VISIONS FOR THE NEIGHBORHOOD

This section presents a summary of the open-ended questions (qualitative data) asked in the North Loop mail survey. Roughly a dozen questions were structured in this manner on the survey. All of the comments are included in an Appendix to this memorandum.

What Do You Like Most About the North Loop Area? (top 5 responses of 12 choices)

Location (nearness to Downtown for employment and entertainment) was the most cited benefit of living or working in the North Loop Neighborhood. Eighty-three percent of mail survey respondents (128 of 155) cited this as one of the top five aspects of the Neighborhood, with 56% citing it as the strongest reason (the red bar on the graph above).

Other strong benefits of the North Loop Neighborhood, according to the mail survey, include the historic warehouse character, arts and entertainment offerings, the river and park amenities, restaurants and housing choices.

Survey results demonstrated strong support for historic warehouse character (65 1st and 2nd place votes) and housing choices (34 1st and 2nd place votes). This suggests a strong interest in larger Neighborhood character, and that many people have moved to the North Loop because of its unique offering of converted warehouses for living and/or working.

What Needs Attention to Make the North Loop Area Better? (top 5 responses of 12 choices)

Three issues that ranked relatively low on the scale of what people like about the North Loop – safety, area businesses and sense of neighborhood – all rank high on the scale of what needs attention, according to the survey. Making the Neighborhood safer was cited by 70% of survey respondents (108 of 155); 56 respondents placed the issue first or second on their list.

Two related issues – expanding local businesses (96 responses) and increasing restaurant opportunities (79 responses) – fell second and third on the needs-attention list. Each issue had 42 respondents citing it as a primary or secondary priority for the Neighborhood.

Creating a sense of neighborhood, maintaining the historic character of the North Loop and developing arts and entertainment opportunities each had between 65 and 75 responses. Maintaining the historic character of the Neighborhood appears to be a key issue among a substantial number of people as it garnered the second largest number of first-rank responses (21), behind only safety (30).

Concerns About the Neighborhood

Many respondents used this question to talk about needs in the Neighborhood (things that would make it better) instead of voicing concerns. Many comments were made about the need for better grocery service, and more restaurants, retail shops and various small businesses. As well, there were at least 10 comments on the need to build a sense of neighborhood identity.

The most frequently mentioned concerns included:

- Safety; the highest single concern mentioned, with at least 25 responses
- Traffic management and stop signs (15+ responses)
- Traffic control (e.g. stop lights) at the intersection of 1st Street and 3rd Avenue North
- Increasing parking options (both off-street and on-street)
- Maintaining the area's historic character and architectural quality
- Over-development or poor-quality/inappropriate development
- Eliminating the adult-oriented businesses
- Loitering and transient males
- Rising property taxes coupled with declining services
- Lack of diversity in housing prices (too much upper end) and people (few minorities)
- Lack of bus/transit service

Perceptions of the Neighborhood

Many respondents speak very positively about the Neighborhood being a vibrant, emerging, promising place with many young professionals and upper-income retirees. Many wrote about the Neighborhood's great potential to become a true urban neighborhood like those that one finds in Chicago and New York. At least 35 respondents identified a fast pace of growth, with most seeing growth as positive, but some seeing it as a threat to identity and character. Several respondents mentioned the diverse nature of the North Loop in a positive way.

Several respondents commented about the expensive housing costs, the lack of collective identity in the Neighborhood and the disjointed land development and transportation patterns.

Service Enjoyed by Residents

Residents clearly appreciate 3 things about the North Loop Neighborhood: 1) the close proximity to the Mississippi River for recreation (74 responses); 2) being able to walk downtown to work, to local restaurants and entertainment or along the riverfront (61 responses); and having great restaurants in the area (61 responses). Respondents also appreciate the parkland in and near the Neighborhood (29 responses) and being able to bike on the Cedar Lake Trail and elsewhere (28 responses). A number of respondents mention coffee shops, particular restaurants (e.g. Sapore, Monte Carlo, etc.) and the Guthrie Lab and Theatre de la Jeune Lune.

Services Missing From the Neighborhood

No other question had such clear unanimity of response as this one. More than 79% of respondents (110 of 139 responses) cited the need for a grocery store or supermarket in the North Loop. A significant number also wrote about the need for more restaurants (43+ responses) and other types of stores (especially a video store and a breakfast café). A handful of comments addressed the need for better transit service, more bike paths/connections, the Twins' Stadium, a liquor store, a pharmacy and a gas station.

Ideas for Neighborhood Events

About one-third of all responses to this question (33 of 103) mentioned that the Neighborhood should hold a block party or festival of some sort. About 19% of respondents (19 people) mentioned the Mississippi riverfront as a good focal point for an event; a river clean-up party, a barbecue/cookout or a music festival. A few people mentioned art (4 responses), music (5) and the Farmer's Market (4) as "themes" for an event. 15 respondents suggested that the event be held during the summer.

What Should be Preserved in the North Loop?

Nearly 71% of respondents to this question (89 of 126) cited the architecture or historic warehouse character and buildings as needing preservation in the North Loop. Parks, trails and recreational amenities were also mentioned by roughly a dozen respondents as Neighborhood features that should be preserved. Respondents also mentioned that the existing, eclectic, independent businesses of the North Loop should be encouraged as much as possible.

What Are the Threats to the North Loop?

About 25% of the responses to this question (33 of 131) cited a concern for future development. Many cited fear over franchise restaurants or retailers arriving and changing the character of the Neighborhood as it continues to grow. Many others cited a concern over poor architectural quality of new buildings (out of synch/style with the historic character; "suburban" style) and too much development without corresponding infrastructure (parking, especially).

Other significant responses related to crime and safety (35+ responses), increasing traffic due to continued growth (21 responses) increasing taxes (18 responses) and sex-related businesses (6 responses).

Vision for the Neighborhood

Many respondents appreciate the path of development the Neighborhood has taken thus far, and would like to see the North Loop become more mixed, with a wide diversity of people and a strong mixture of residential, business, retail, arts, public/recreational and entertainment uses. The term "self sustaining," referring to the presence of all common goods and services in the Neighborhood, was mentioned (or hinted at) several times.

Many responses mention a young, urban, vibrant neighborhood like those found in other, larger cities (Chicago, New York, Boston's Back Bay). Several people cited the need to maintain controls on housing costs, the scale of development (building heights) and the quality of architecture. Clearly, arts, entertainment, restaurants and recreation are important features in the North Loop Neighborhood, and they need to play lead roles in its future.

How can we improve the North Loop Neighborhood?

Dear North Loop Neighbor:

The North Loop Neighborhood Association has Neighborhood Revitalization Program (NRP) funds from the City of Minneapolis that we can use to make sure that our community remains a vital, thriving place. Your answers to this survey will help determine how these funds are spent (Phase I) and help develop a plan for future improvements.

Once the surveys are in, the results will be tabulated and used to develop the North Loop Phase I Neighborhood Action Plan. You will have the opportunity to vote on the Action Plan. Once approved, the proposed action will be implemented.

Results of the surveys will also be published in the North Loop Neighborhood Association newsletter.

Frequently asked questions regarding the NRP and the survey.

- * What is the Neighborhood Revitalization Project?
The NRP is about building partnerships among residents and between residents and government agencies. Basically, we identify issues in our neighborhood that we would like to confront, develop a plan to address those issues, and then work with NRP in order to complete it.
- * What is the North Loop?
If you live or work within the boundaries of the map shown on the back of the survey, you are in the North Loop Neighborhood.
- * What is the purpose of this survey and why should I fill it out?
The purpose of the survey is to interview the neighborhood. We are trying to learn as much as possible about what concerns us as a neighborhood. Once we know what our concerns are, we can begin to develop a plan to address them and secure the appropriate and available funding from the NRP. This is our chance to help get something positive – something we all want- done in our neighborhood.

Thank you for participating in this Community Input Process!

ISSUES facing the North Loop:

- Traffic Management: Strategies for lighting, signage, traffic patterns, vehicle speed limits, etc.
- Safety: Police + Fire strategies and coverage
- Connections: pedestrian, bike, automobile to downtown, adjacent neighborhoods + river
- Neighborhood Identity
- Creation of an annual neighborhood event: something to bring the neighborhood together
- River maintenance, and riverfront improvement
- Promotion of small business + residential development
- Creation of a “Master Plan”: a guideline for future development + other neighborhood visions + goals.

INTRODUCTION

Market Research Partners, Inc. (MRP) conducted four focus groups in the North Loop Neighborhood of Minneapolis during May and June of 2003. These discussions were designed to follow up on a detailed mail survey that was completed in April 2003, which revealed key issues of interest or concern to Neighborhood stakeholders. The four focus groups, which were well publicized and open to anyone with ties to the Neighborhood, involved roughly 60 people, mostly residents. Several days in advance of each session, participants were given a list of questions and directed to come prepared to discuss their answers during the session.

The results of the focus groups are summarized in this document, and will be combined with the mail survey results to support the drafting of a Phase I NRP Plan.

FOCUS GROUP 1: RETAIL STORES, RESTAURANTS & SERVICES IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD (HELD MAY 27TH, 2003)

QUESTIONS DIRECTED AT THE PARTICIPANTS

1. What existing grocery store in another area is a good model for the North Loop?
2. What strategies could the Neighborhood pursue to attract a grocery store?
3. What are the pros and cons of a co-op market instead of a traditional grocery store?
4. Besides a grocery store, what other specific retail uses or goods/services do Neighborhood residents and businesses need (that are not there now)?
5. Where in the North Loop should the various retail and services businesses be located?
6. Should the Neighborhood encourage the development of a retail node (one area with most of the stores) or should these uses be distributed in several spots?
7. What areas of the city have the appropriate scale and “character” of retail/services that are appropriate for North Loop (e.g. Linden Hills, Nicollet Island East/University & Central, “Eat Street” (Nicollet))?

COMMENTS MADE BY THE PARTICIPANTS

Visions of a Grocery Store in the North Loop

Specific Comments:

Model after the Kowalski’s (Grand Avenue, 24th and Hennepin and 53rd and Lyndale): small, high-quality, interesting, unique space.

Model after Dean and DeLuca in New York – convenient, a “walkable” store, not a box; a place that integrates tightly into the Neighborhood and feels part of the place.

Model after the Wedge Co-op in south Minneapolis or Whole Foods (another co-op).

The store should be a full-service grocery with a deli and specialty items.

Could be a “hybrid” of several stores; not typical, but combining things uniquely demanded by the Neighborhood (need a creative developer).

The curb appeal is very important; large windows, architecturally fitting with the Neighborhood.

Small grocery stores that draw you in (like in New York); several specialty stores next to each other that together form a sense of place and offer many items.

Full service grocery with other stores inside (several specialty shops under one roof).

Items that should be in the store:

- Fine cheese
- Fresh produce
- Flowers
- Good meat
- Pharmacy

The store should provide daily necessities and a really good deli.

Some of the existing businesses in the Neighborhood might be good candidates to be part of a grocery store/specialty store development.

Delmonico's on Central/Broadway (Italian specialty shop with a broad product selection) is a great store.

There is a give and take between quality and price, but many in the Neighborhood want higher-quality goods and can pay for them.

Moderator's Summary:

Overall, participants agreed that a grocery store in the North Loop must be very unique and highly focused on the Neighborhood (as opposed to attempting to serve a large area and pulling traffic in from the outside, like many suburban stores). The Neighborhood has a large population of educated, urbane, cultured people and the grocery store should reflect this in its offerings and atmosphere. The store should not attempt to follow established grocery models found throughout the Twin Cities but should attempt to be a "one of a kind."

Strategies to Get a Grocery Store in the North Loop

Specific Comments:

Someone from the WDNLA should get the grocers to come and talk to us. We should ask them why it would not work here. What is the density threshold that is needed to support different levels of market service? Identify critical measures to find out how we stack up.

Jim Stanton: He has talked to the grocers, and stated that there has never been a push for a grocery in this area and with the price of land so high, it will not likely work in the Neighborhood. Parking is also an impediment, as land is at a premium and structured parking is very expensive ($20,000-$25,000 per stall?) The area needs more people to make a grocery store viable. The Basset Creek/Washington Avenue area might offer the most affordable land for a store.

Explore the Farmer's Market; it has plenty of parking and is within walking distance for many residents. Create partnership to relocate it closer to residents and provide a more permanent location?

Create a contest for designers and professionals to develop a creative, affordable solution for grocery in the Neighborhood and offer a cash prize for the best solution.

Formal outreach program to work with Downtown and Nicollet Island East Neighborhoods to work together to get a grocery store.

Work with the River Market (which many are disappointed with) to alter its product offerings to better fit the Neighborhood.

Work to upgrade Rick's Market in the University/Central area (Nicollet Island East Neighborhood).

Identify a commercial area in which the grocery would be developed.

Spend some of the NRP money to create the perception of need in the North Loop: newsletter articles, PR, Skyway News (Ellen), etc.

Moderator's Summary:

Jim Stanton's comments brought a valuable "realistic" perspective to the discussion. Getting a grocery store in the Neighborhood will require a lot of grassroots work and creative problem solving. A committee/subcommittee should be set up to work on this issue exclusively. The answer may lie in working with adjacent neighborhoods such as Downtown and Nicollet Island East (University/Central area). Several people thought that the Neighborhood should make an attempt to work with the River Market to see if its owners could modify the store and products to better match resident desires.

The Co-Op Model (introduced by Julie S. of Sapore)

Specific Comments:

Alternative grocery model that might work in the Neighborhood. Much smaller store. Owned by residents who become members. Members, in turn, decide on what products should be in the store and how it should operate, look, etc.
Local consultant that works nationally on co-op feasibility. $8,000 (?) for feasibility study for a co-op in the Neighborhood. This person surveys the Neighborhood on product interests and helps set up the organization.
Whole Foods considers the North Loop too small for a co-op.
Small co-op at Snelling/Selby that is about 4000 square feet could be a good model.
Requires a small group of very committed persons to get it up and running.
People go to places because of the quality not the bricks and mortar.

Moderator's Summary:

People seemed a bit cool to the idea at first (many thought that co-ops were too "granola"), but during break, several participants thought that the idea was worth exploring. Many cited the high degree of control over the operations and product selection as big benefits to the co-op grocery idea.

Other Retail Stores and Services that the North Loop Needs

Specific Comments:

- Uses needed in the Neighborhood:
- Bakery
 - Breakfast place (Cuzzy's)
 - Late night diner
 - Ice Cream parlor
 - Barber shop
 - Health/fitness – day spa
 - Art Galleries
 - Good dry cleaner inside of grocery store
 - Wine store

John Cunningham/developer of Itasca wants to develop a restaurant on the River. Neighborhood should support the idea of some commercial uses along the River that create destinations. The Park Board has rejected this in the past and will be a tough foe. National franchises are too “suburban” for the North Loop. Block E developed in the wrong manner.

Bring in uses that generate “foot traffic.”

Need to build upon locally owned businesses.

Space is expensive – local businesses have trouble finding affordable space within the Neighborhood. Sarah (Mitre Box owner) stated that new development leads to high-price space and the developers don’t make it affordable. Nicollet Island East should not be the model in the North Loop, as it relates to space cost and national food retailers.

Something more unique would act as a broader draw to get more people into the Neighborhood.

Grand Avenue is a good mix and has recently allowed a national retailer (Pottery Barn) in. Some “anchor” uses like national retailers help because they bring in traffic, helping the independents to survive. The North Loop realistically needs some national stores.

Larger stores (e.g. big box) can support development because they have the money.

Independent businesses will need some sort of subsidy.

Moderator’s Summary:

People were very concerned about becoming a typical national chain district. All were concerned with maintaining as many local, independent retailers as possible and fostering a retail mix that fit with the historic character of the Neighborhood, and has a walkable form. Keeping spaces affordable as development pressure intensifies will be a great challenge for the North Loop.

Where Should the Retail in North Loop be Located? What Should it Look Like? Focused on One Node? How Do We Fill the Void?

Specific Comments:

“Vision” should be to keep local retail independent and as small as possible.

Create a special neighborhood. Washington Avenue has great potential as commercial corridor, but the services are not good now.

Unique, high-quality uses that reflect North Loop history.

A (gas?) trolley should run through the Neighborhood. This would offer frequent stops at key nodes, reduce parking need, allow people to shop at a variety of places in the Neighborhood and would connect the North Loop with other areas.

We need some draw that identifies with the area. The Neighborhood has to have some notion of what it wants to be. The challenge is getting/keeping independent retailers and businesses that can afford the space (or keeping space affordable in the face of new development).

Washington Avenue is not Grand Avenue.

We need a local event, and Washington Avenue would be a logical location for it.

Establish a recognizable piece of art, a plaza or a square. The expensive costs for land will be an impediment to this.

The city tore down the Gateway Center (?) which was a recognizable landmark.

More feasible approach to get the businesses to locate where they can, rather than try to direct them all to one place.

Services should remain concentrated within walking distance to residential.

Develop Washington Avenue as a walkable street with boulevards. Make it the commercial strip in the Neighborhood.

Identify what we have vs. what we need. There are many uses that people don't know about. Locals would support what they know. Maybe the next marketing effort is to promote what is already here.

Market research study of the Neighborhood.

Grass roots effort to promote area local businesses.

Develop a map of local businesses.

The proposed north Nicollet Mall district plan comes into the North Loop and we should know about this effort and work with it.

Jim Stanton was fairly bullish about future retail, stating that he has had 2-3 unsolicited inquiries from retailers for the Rock Island building. He sees a great mix of residents in his North Loop buildings and the retail is just gaining momentum.

Commercial nodes in the Neighborhood – get the right uses and the right form will follow.

The North Loop needs a plan that identifies what we want/don't want; a "road map."

We are an historic neighborhood and our preservation depends on representation (HPC, developers).

The Neighborhood has no voice yet. We need much stronger participation from locals.

Moderator's Summary:

The North Loop has unique characteristics not found elsewhere. The North Loop cannot simply copy the pattern of another neighborhood. The Neighborhood is so new that many people don't understand what is here. The issue of what retail to attract and where to put it is premature without first understanding and promoting what is already here. The group has strong desire to foster local businesses and avoid becoming a standardized retail/commercial district like other areas (e.g. Block E). The Neighborhood needs focal points and elements that speak to an identity. Washington Avenue is important to the Neighborhood's identity and should play prominently in future retail plans, identity-building events and transportation.

FOCUS GROUP 2: VISION FOR THE NEIGHBORHOOD (HELD JUNE 1ST, 2003)

QUESTIONS DIRECTED AT THE PARTICIPANTS

1. What do you envision for the North Loop Neighborhood when it is fully built?
2. What adjectives describe the kind of place that the North Loop Neighborhood is in the future (e.g. busy, quiet, serene, dense, etc.)?
3. What are the important physical elements that make the North Loop the unique place that it is (and help achieve the vision)?
4. How do public open spaces or other amenities play a role?
5. How should the North Loop be different from other Neighborhoods?
6. What other areas nationally or locally are good models for the North Loop?
7. What kinds of people live in the North Loop, and how is the mix different than today?
8. What kinds of housing options are there in the North Loop, and how is it different from today?
9. What are the key threats to achieving the vision of the Neighborhood?

COMMENTS MADE BY THE PARTICIPANTS

Neighborhood Vision

Specific Comments:

To become an area where one can find all major goods and services. To not have to leave the Neighborhood for anything. Become “self-sustaining.”

A highly complex place (land uses and people), where all of the parts work together, and there is a clear identity.

A very pedestrian-friendly place.

A place with parks and amenities for children.

Maintain the unique character and mix that is currently here.

Demand funding from developers of high-density buildings for parks and parking.

More trees and green spaces.

One coordinated plan versus a whole series of individual development decisions.

Boulevards with trees lining them.

A distinctive neighborhood with a common theme through landscape architecture and infrastructure elements (e.g. street lamps and benches).

An area without the sex-oriented uses. These uses imply a transient quality, while the Neighborhood is trying to become a permanent, notable, livable place.

An area with an organized approach to emergencies; fire/police; quick response.

Maintain the continuity of character that currently exists in the Washington corridor as development spreads to other parts of the Neighborhood.

An area with good signage.

No “sharp edges” in the development pattern. The district should transition gently from one use to another.

An area where all the buildings are full and there are lots of arts and artists.

No one thinks of Déjà vu and Sex World when they think about the North Loop.

The Neighborhood is proactive about developing/fostering commercial businesses, especially those that offer complementary goods and services to the Neighborhood.

An area where many different forms of transportation come together in a workable, logical way; buses, light rail, commuter rail, walking, bicycles, the trolley and cars.

Moderator’s Summary:

People care very much about the character of the Neighborhood and the quality of life in it. Many have a vision of a human-friendly place where people walk a lot and drive little. Density is a benefit to many residents, not a problem. People appreciate the unique mix of uses and want to continue to foster this quality. The historic character of the district and the unique architecture of the buildings should be acknowledged in new development and maintained as much as possible. Most attendees focused on the residential district north of Washington Avenue in their comments, and many do not naturally think of the other parts of the Neighborhood (outside of the Farmer’s Market) in their visioning.

Adjectives That Describe the Kind of Place North Loop Should Be (and Supportive of the Vision)

Specific Comments:

Urban.

Many little-sized parks.

Upscale.

Bustling.

Diverse (ethnically and in terms of uses: light industrial, residential, open spaces).

Crime-free.

Historic, warehouse style architecture.
Where historic development patterns meet the 20th century.
Walkable, comfortable and friendly.
Farmer's Market.
Artistic (theaters).
Trendy, art-embracing.
Active in a people way, but not noisy.
The Minneapolis version of SOHO.
Trolley as a symbol.

Moderator's Summary:

People want the North Loop to be lively, active and busy, but in a "people way." Activities should be centered around what residents need and desire in all aspects of living (shopping, dining, entertainment, personal errands and services, etc.) and not centered around the needs of industrial uses or uses that negatively impact the quality of life. For example, the sex-oriented uses would make the North Loop busy in a way that is not friendly to the Neighborhood. The North Loop should be cultured, intelligent, urban, friendly and exciting, yet calm.

Important Physical Elements That Make North Loop Unique (and That Also Support the Vision)

Specific Comments:

The River makes North Loop unique.
Bridges help define this area, and the Plymouth Bridge is the worst part of the Mississippi Mile area.
The street next to Rock Island Lofts should be opened to allow cross connections in the Neighborhood.
The style of lighting on Washington is great; iron fences in spots also keep the historic character.
Washington Avenue is the most important street in the district.
The Farmer's Market is important to North Loop's identity.
The Cedar Lake Trail and its connection to the riverfront.
The stadium proposal could put the Neighborhood on a whole new trajectory, not unlike what happened in Baltimore (Camden Yards baseball park), Denver (SODO near Coor's Field baseball stadium) and near Pac Bell Park (baseball) in San Francisco.
The multimodal facility (the meeting of light rail and commuter rail) could be an important element or node in the North Loop.

Moderator's Summary:

The mix of uses and the land use pattern in the North Loop are complex. This is a good thing, according to discussion participants. The challenge to the community will be to connect all of the assets of the district – the River, Washington Avenue, the Farmer's Market, etc. – in a cohesive manner that enhances livability for residents, creates human-scale connections and fosters commercial/retail uses. Future possible uses, including the multimodal facility and the stadium, could enhance the livability of the North Loop, but they need to be integrated with uses that exist (and are valued by residents).

Other Areas That Are Good Examples for the North Loop

Specific Comments:

The Bottineau Library in NE Minneapolis is a great example of a public institutional use.
SOHO in New York.
Lincoln Park in Chicago; great mix of old brownstones, families, singles, small restaurants, etc.
Old Town in Alexandria, Virginia; an old torpedo factory was renovated into a great retail (?) center.
Back Bay in Boston; great residential district; lots of first-floor retail; self-sufficient neighborhood.
Belltown in Seattle; bordering Pike Place Market, along the monorail to the Space Needle and downtown retail (Westlake Center); mix of light industry, artists, poor/homeless agencies, new high-density residential; close to inner harbor area.
East Hennepin area (Nicollet Island East); retail node and new residential.
Lowertown, St. Paul; Farmer's Market, artists' lofts, historic buildings, parks.

Moderator's Summary:

There are bits and pieces from many successful areas that the North Loop could model. However, the North Loop has a very unique mix of residences, commercial uses, government uses (Federal Reserve, the garbage incinerator, MTC, etc.), non-profits, small businesses, restaurants and arts. The Neighborhood needs to develop a vision from the ground up, from scratch, which addresses the unique assemblage of pieces and works toward a vision that unifies the disparate parts. It is clear that Washington Avenue, the Farmer's Market, restaurants/retail, open spaces and the arts will play critical roles in unifying the Neighborhood vision.

People and Housing Mix of the Future North Loop Neighborhood

Specific Comments:

More, affordable housing.
More rental units, to allow other household types into the North Loop
Get brownstone units added; townhomes too.
More families with children (need playground equipment).
Currently there are only high-income or low-income people; not much in between. We should work toward a better mix of incomes.
Ensure commercial use diversity in the future.
Diverse people-wise, even if there are few children.

Moderator's Summary:

People enjoy the North Loop that exists today, but hint that something is lacking in the diversity of people, commercial/retail uses and housing price points. Many would like to see further housing development with new urban styles (e.g. traditional brownstones), an addition of lower-cost housing alternatives and the attraction of a wider diversity of people. People believe that the North Loop is a place of strength and that future development should add to the strength; keep the good parts and add new good parts.

Threats to the North Loop Neighborhood

Specific Comments:

Increased traffic could overtake the Neighborhood as growth continues. Parking and traffic management need to be addressed holistically (a transportation plan for the Neighborhood).

Lack of connections. There are large blocks with no north-south crossings for several blocks (e.g. from Heritage Landing past Riverstation. The residential part of the Neighborhood is disconnected from the Farmer's Market area.

The lack of a grocery store is a hindrance to quality of life.

The lack of mobilization of residents is a threat. Locals need to become involved in the WDNLA!

Heavy industrial uses on the south side of I-94, particularly their expansion (e.g. the car crusher proposal).

Crime has to stay minimal and the residents have to perceive that they are safe.

Reduction in services from the city and a raising of property taxes. One respondent cited the lack of city money for landscaping. As well, bus service needs to be as strong as possible.

Poor architectural quality of new buildings.

Moderator's Summary:

The movement of people and traffic seem to be important issues in this rapidly-developing area. Many believed it important for stakeholders to stay on top of these issues, suggesting the need for a master plan. Other threats could come about if industrial uses expand, needed goods and services fail to materialize in the Neighborhood and the overall budget problems of the city and state lead to a reduction in services such as park maintenance, police and fire protection and road maintenance. Crime, stated by participants as not a large problem at the time, could be a problem as the area adds more people. A new stadium would bring a lot of outsiders into the area on a regular basis, affecting safety, traffic and overall quality of life, if not designed and managed well.

FOCUS GROUP 3: NEIGHBORHOOD LIVABILITY (HELD JUNE 9TH, 2003)

QUESTIONS DIRECTED AT THE PARTICIPANTS

1. What negatively affects the livability and safety of the North Loop? (be specific)
 - Crime?
 - Traffic?
 - Poor Lighting?
 - Unsafe Spaces?
 - Particular Uses?
 - Lack of particular amenities?
 - Other?
2. Who is most affected, and when?
3. What should be done to change the things that negatively affect the North Loop?
4. What is the Neighborhood's role in making these changes?
5. What other entities should have a role and what should they specifically do?
6. What other similar, urban places (nationally or in the Twin Cities) have the "livability" characteristics that the North Loop should have?

COMMENTS MADE BY THE PARTICIPANTS

Things That Negatively Affect the Livability of the Neighborhood

Specific Comments:

Traffic:

The intersection at 3rd Avenue and 1st Street (near the former Nikki's restaurant) is a dangerous intersection. There should be some sort of traffic control device there. One person mentioned that it is particularly bad at rush hour. Another mentioned that he avoids this intersection on foot for fear of being hit while crossing either street. Many drivers "blow through" the stop sign (going both directions) at the intersection at 4th Avenue and 1st Street (near the Rock Island Lofts). People tend to drive quite fast in front of the Guthrie Lab (a "speedway" according to one). This causes a dangerous condition for people exiting the Itasca Building residences from the north (where the road intersects with 8th, in front of the StarTribune plant). The timing of the light near Lappin Lighting should be changed. The Neighborhood has an historical cut-through traffic pattern that will go away as drivers understand that it is now a residential area. The hours for the municipal ramp at 10th and Washington should be extended.

Crime:

The potential for crime (mostly petty) increases at bar closing time. Specific crime incidents: car break-ins along 8th near Bunkers; a shooting several years ago in the parking lot of HGA (near 8th and Washington); loiterers looking to commit petty theft in the 411 Washington Building; some break-ins in the past in The Landings townhome complex along the river road (attributed to overgrowth of bushes and a larger homeless population along the River a few years ago).

Now that the Neighborhood is approaching a critical mass of residents, the Neighborhood should get better policing (the Neighborhood should demand it).
The riverfront parkland has the potential to foster crime at night.
New development has “squeezed out” those who used to come up from the River, commit petty crimes in the Neighborhood at night and then retreat to the river area.
“Snow birds” (those who only live in the Neighborhood half the year) could be susceptible to crime if thieves discover their patterns.

Other:

No facilities for children (play equipment, parks) in the Neighborhood.
No gas station at night.
No dog park.
The lighting along the River ends where the incline down to the River begins.

Moderator's Summary:

Traffic problems seem limited to just a handful of intersections. Relatively minor improvements in these areas (e.g. stop signs or lights) can likely reduce the negative impact and improve safety. Surprisingly, none of the respondents mentioned any significant crime problems over and above those that one would expect for an inner-urban neighborhood. New development with residential uses has reduced the number of hiding places for vagrants and transients who might commit crime. Despite being asked about other things that might negatively affect the Neighborhood, few responded with anything meaningful other than the few things listed above, under “Other.”

What Should be Done to Change the Things That Negatively Affect the Neighborhood

Specific Comments:

Crime:

Create a “safe unit” plan in conjunction with a police officer or civil servant (Luther Krueger)
Encourage residents and business/property owners to get on the crime email list.
Establish a link from the WDNLA web site to the crime email resource.
Use the newsletter to let residents know about resources to fight crime.
Surveillance cameras near shelter areas and the Cedar Lake Trail. The first stretch of the trail goes under a freeway overpass (I-94 access bridges) and there should be better lighting and perhaps some cameras.
The Neighborhood should produce a map showing the locations of crime incidents.
Residents should take personal awareness training.

Traffic:

There should be a traffic circulator trolley in the Neighborhood with regular routes. Developers could contribute to the costs of development/operation. This would tie back to the roots of the Neighborhood as a key place in the Minneapolis trolley system.
Encourage building residents to use fewer cars. The 607 Washington Avenue building has just one parking space for each unit.
The Neighborhood should have formal involvement to ensure that off-street parking needs are satisfied by new developments.
The Neighborhood should develop a traffic management plan; work with the City and get the plan formally recognized.

Make sure that circulator bus service is included in the Downtown Minneapolis transit plan.

Other:

Lighting – develop a lighting plan for the whole.

Create “pocket parks” as places of refuge for residents; small spaces throughout all parts of the Neighborhood. One of these parks could perhaps be a dog park (although this might require more space than a typical pocket park).

Develop “shade refuges” or “oases” for walkers during the summer months. The Neighborhood is all concrete in many sections and foot travelers would benefit greatly from strategically-located shaded spots.

Moderator’s Summary:

There are several resources already available to address the crime issues in the Neighborhood; it’s mainly a matter of spreading the news about them and encouraging their use. Based on comments, it appears as though several “holistic plans” could help unify the Neighborhood and minimize conflicts: a traffic management plan, a lighting plan, a parks/open spaces/shade plan and a crime prevention plan, at a minimum.

Neighborhood’s Role in Making Changes: Other Entities That Should Play a Role

Specific Comments:

The WDNLA invites Councilmember Johnson-Lee to monthly meetings.

Under former Councilmember Cherryholmes, there was an open forum meeting (open to all) twice per year, and it was seen as a good thing for the Neighborhood.

The North Loop Business Association should be a stronger player (and more connected to the WDNLA) on livability issues in general. The Greater North Washington Business Association was also mentioned as a possible stakeholder in the Neighborhood, although some thought that the area of coverage for this association was outside of the North Loop.

Other key entities that the Neighborhood could formally work with on various issues: The Farmer’s Market, the StarTribune, police/fire, Hennepin County, Sharing/Caring Hands, The Comedy Club, Theatre de la Jeune Lune, The Guthrie.

The arts play a big role in the Neighborhood: The Comedy Club, Theatre de la Jeune Lune, The Guthrie Lab, The Minnesota Opera (stars live at the Gar Scott Lofts on a seasonal basis).

Annual events that bring the community together: National Night Out, a Bunker’s-sponsored event, the Gardner (sp?) Hardware Anvil Drop. Also, there was a one-time event called No Wash Day which was very successful.

Moderator’s Summary:

There are a wide number of entities that have a stake in the Neighborhood and the WDNLA has ample opportunities to make positive connections. At least one committee could be established to reach out to the entities mentioned by session participants (and many other entities not mentioned). In particular, the WDNLA could strengthen its relationship with the business associations that serve the Neighborhood. For example, the WDNLA could help with awareness building of local businesses and the businesses, in turn, could help the WDNLA through event sponsorships and lobbying with politicians and other civic entities on livability issues.

Other Places Nationally and Locally That Have a High Level of Livability

Specific Comments:

Downtown Portland, Oregon. There is a great mix between residential, business, entertainment, leisure and transit uses. People can walk there. The place has not been overdeveloped.

Belltown, a neighborhood just off of Downtown Seattle, Washington. This area mixes light-industrial, non-profit/homeless organizations, public transportation, entertainment and residential uses very well.

Chelsea Pier in New York. Among the uses in this area are retailers, fashion boutiques, taxi cab repair, residences and converted warehouses (to retail).

Downtown St. Paul.

FOCUS GROUP 4: NEIGHBORHOOD IDENTITY AND ORGANIZATION (HELD JUNE 11TH, 2003)

QUESTIONS DIRECTED AT THE PARTICIPANTS

1. What activities/initiatives should the Neighborhood undertake to create a more cohesive community?
2. Who participates in these activities?
3. What are the goals of pursuing these activities? (Who benefits from them and how?)
4. What themes could the activities be based on?
5. How will the North Loop Neighborhood know that it has achieved an “identity?”
6. What other neighborhoods serve as good role models, and what specifically do they do?
7. What does the City have planned for the Neighborhood? What should the City do?
8. What communications strategies should the Neighborhood follow (what should be communicated, how often and to whom)?

COMMENTS MADE BY THE PARTICIPANTS

Activities That the Neighborhood Should Pursue; Participants; Themes; Reasons

Specific Comments:

Activities that the Neighborhood has pursued in the past:

- No Wash-one-time event done 3 years ago in the summer.
- Gardner Hardware Anvil Drop (July?)
- National Night Out
- Camp Heartland-weekend rock fest promoted by Bunker’s

The Neighborhood should have a block party based around the opening of the Theatre de la Jeune Lune season. Perhaps Jeune Lune could take over the former Bastille Day (sponsored by the former New French café?)

A party around the Farmer’s Market opening and closing (?) days.

Earth Day/Clean up the Mississippi River; could be done in conjunction with the Minnesota Watershed Project (a clean up effort from Prescott, WI to St. Anthony).

Movies in the Park (similar to those at Loring Park and Steven’s Square).

“Films Against the Warehouse.”

The Neighborhood should create a permanent gathering spot/public space that serves as the focal point for the Neighborhood.

Base the annual event around art or food; other participants can “glom” onto these easily.

A fair/annual event centered on drama would be unique. Wasn’t Washington Avenue an historic theater district in the past?

Don’t have the annual event in August; the heat would be horrible, especially along Washington (no trees; all concrete).

Why do an annual event? To inject some life into the street.

The annual event should not be too focused on one thing; there should be 3 or 4 “draws” to get people to attend.

Key spots for identify-building: Washington Avenue; the riverfront area; Farmer’s Market.

The theme of the annual event should be the “street.”

Build an annual event around the anvil drop by the hardware store? It certainly is unique and would be a fun event around which to rally. It has a nebulous quality and many different types of events and participants could emanate easily from it.

Make sure that there is a “little something for everyone.” (Which is a lot like the way the North Loop is in reality.)

The North Loop should pursue two types of activities on an annual basis:

- A big event to bring outsiders into the Neighborhood (raise awareness and cement identity) and to support local businesses. This could be a joint effort by residents and businesses.
- A series of smaller events to get residents together and to bring family and friends into the Neighborhood. Summertime is too packed with competitive activities; summer art fairs especially. The North Loop should have its annual event in the fall.

Big event idea: Theater Fest. It could grow to include other types of artists and businesses (sponsorships). A wine tasting party at the Farmer’s Market: “fruit, cheese and wine.”

Big event idea: The Twin Cities Fine Arts Organization (former warehouse district artists) produces “Art on the Town” in October. Participants get a passport to visit galleries and vendors around town. Could the North Loop dovetail its annual party with this event?

Small event idea: Flea market once per month on the parking lot next to Cuzzy’s (sp?).

This could also be in a warehouse

Small event idea: Community breakfast; team with a charity

Small event idea: Open house for businesses; the Old St. Anthony Business Association does an “ice-breaker” event primarily to promote retailers. The Association promotes the event partly through a post-card mailing.

Moderator’s Summary:

There was strong support that an annual event should be unique and positioned so as to be different from other neighborhood parties. One person’s comments about a “big event” once a year and several smaller gatherings garnered good support. Many participants believed that the theater assets of the Neighborhood could serve as a foundation for an annual event; Theatre de la Jeune Lune was mentioned several times as an institution from which an event could emerge (e.g. Bastille Day or a theater-season opening party). Support seemed to be strong for a fall event, as this would be a less competitive time and cooler in temperature. Washington Avenue should figure prominently in any large-scale celebration in many minds, as it is the most important arterial (historically and currently).

What are the Hallmarks of Identity in the North Loop?

Specific Comments:

The visual aspects of identity for the Neighborhood are very important.

The North Loop will in part have an identity when:

- There are signs introducing the Neighborhood at key points, such as the Gateway area.
- Residents will not have to explain outsiders where the North Loop is.
- When there is a regular vehicle for communication (?)
- When the media recognizes the Neighborhood and covers local news and events.

- When the North Loop is not considered to be the “warehouse district” or just another subdistrict of Downtown.
- When all of the areas of the Neighborhood are tied together through the development pattern, transportation, signage and other elements.

Moderator’s Summary:

Knowing when the Neighborhood has exactly achieved an “identity” is a difficult concept, but many respondents reported specific milestones that work toward this goal. A big hurdle will be to pull together the wide range of subdistricts in the Neighborhood into some sort of cohesive whole. Certainly, awareness-building with the media and the outside world (and cleaving from the Downtown area perceptually) will be an important first step.

Other Areas That Have Strong Elements of Identity

Specific Comments:

Eat Street; Nicollet South (caters to the specific market of tourists/conventioners).
Bryn Mawr. This neighborhood has a garage sale weekend and a garden tour.
The Powderhorn Neighborhood; the park is a strong feature.
50th and France. Known by the intersection. Strong shops, pedestrian friendly, signage along 50th listing retailers.

Moderator’s Summary:

The group didn’t spend a lot of energy trying to identify other areas to emulate. Instead, the group talked about the belief that the Neighborhood is a unique place, and will therefore require a unique identity-building effort.

Communications Strategies, Specific Tactics and Other Comments

Specific Comments:

Map of area businesses, theaters/entertainment and other attractions.
A flyer like the one covering Eat Street.
“Loft design tour;” have businesses and residents open their loft spaces for a tour.
Work more closely with Skyway News to develop identity and news stories.
Work more closely with the North Loop Newsletter.
Focus marketing efforts on theater-goers?
Develop a WDNLA signage committee.
Process: 1. Solidify the logo (is the trolley symbol strong enough?); 2. Develop graphic design standards that apply to all documents relating to the North Loop and make sure everyone uses them; 3. Create a neighborhood map and other pieces that follow the standards.
Have a walking tour of the Neighborhood (J. Slack).
Create a self-guided walking tour for visitors to the Neighborhood. This would highlight the historical elements of the Neighborhood.
Get a PR firm to help with identity building on a pro-bono basis (which they do in cases like this).
A strong business association is vital to creating an identity.
Do not rely on the City to show the way. The Neighborhood should be instructing City officials about what they can do to help the Neighborhood.

Moderator's Summary:

The group identified some novel ideas and resources including pro-bono work by PR firms (of which there are some in the North Loop, along with many professional designers), walking tours, loft tours and direct marketing to theater patrons. All in all, there appears to be plenty of strong thinkers to tackle the issue of identity building, assuming the energy and momentum in the Neighborhood continues to grow and the WDNLA can continue to show leadership and provide an organizational framework for further efforts. There could be several subcommittees set up to pursue things such as logo/design standards, local business map creation and media outreach.
